

One unanswered quote follow-up

Input: one unanswered quote, last reply, or rough draft. Output: subject plus one follow-up email.

Unanswered quote context

sent quote last week
they said budget looked ok
needed to ask partner
no answer since then
want a simple next email

Next email to send

Subject: quick yes/no on the quote
Hi Jordan - quick check on the website cleanup quote.
Should I keep this open for this month, or close it out for now? If it still makes sense, I can hold the Thursday start slot.

Why this is useful

ROUGH INPUT	CLEANER EMAIL DOES
"sent quote last week"	Names the real thread.
"needed to ask partner"	Acknowledges the buyer's actual blocker.
"no answer since then"	Turns silence into a clean yes/no ask.
no clear ask	Asks for yes, no, or a next step.

Optional internal note

FIELD	VALUE
Outcome	One email ready to send.
Next action	Paste it into the existing thread.
Risk	Do not send private details in the example.

Alan turns one unanswered quote into one follow-up email. This example uses invented data.
